Republican Leaders Will Sidetrack All Reform Bills

TAX MEASURES TO BE STIFLED

Mild Farm Relief Will Be Attempted
AVOID RATE REVISION
Election Taken as Order For "Hands Off"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Action on important national reforms such as railroad rate revision, radical farm relief legislation and further taxation changes is to be put off indefinitely as a result of the election. A representative group of republican leaders in congress have agreed that they should prevent any action upon such vital questions at the December session which opens a month from today.
The tremendous majority of Calvin Coolidge is interpreted by these ruling solons as a mandate of the people to stifle any revisionary changes in present laws—at least until the Coolidge republican working majority comes into power in March.
The work of the December session hence probably will be restricted to such measures for farm relief as meet the almost unanimous endorsement of all the factions of congress and passage of appropriation bills are planned.
The republican leaders who cannot make open statements now because all the new elements in their party representation in congress have been consulted, feel that the conditions of the farmer is growing better every day under present laws and neither business nor the working man are in dire need of any new laws at present some of the leaders feel.

$4,300,000 RUM CARGOES SEIZED

U. S. Dry Squadron Nabs 8 Foreign Boats

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The Atlantic seaboard rum fleet is demoralized and reduced to a smaller number than at any time in the past 18 months, the treasury department announced today.

It was the greatest haul of foreign vessels since prohibition. All were captured outside the 12-mile limit, from 20 to 30 miles off shore under regulations of the liquor treaties between this government and the countries from which the ships were registered.

'Ma' Give Pa' Woodpile Job And Orders to Keep Busy

Expresses Doubts as to His Liking for Labor With Ax, But Says He Must Stay With It
TEMPLE, Texas, Nov. 8.—Having spent the last few months repairing political fences in Texas, former Governor Jim Ferguson was back at the family farm near here today setting things in order. There is no telephone at the farm and "Ma" did not know how he was getting along.
But the governor-elect of Texas was not worried, she told the United Press. "Jim went out to the farm a couple of days ago and has not come back," she said. "There is probably plenty to keep him busy out there and maybe he is piling up that supply of winter wood."
"Jim has said that his chief work while I am governor will be to carry water and keep the woodbox filled. However, he is like most men, as far as being companionable with a woodpile is concerned, and I will have to show him," she declared.
The former governor will do considerable farming during the next two years and a lot of "minding his own business" on the word of "Ma."
"While I am being the governor, he is going to have charge of the farm. That's his business and he is going to mind it," "Ma" was emphatic.
However, the former governor will make his home at Austin, where he and "Ma" will occupy the executive mansion. "Certainly they are going down there with me. Did you think I would go down there alone?" she queried.

Rail Shares Take Lead In "Bull" Swing

BIGGEST SINCE 1919

509 Separate Issues Are Traded In

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—More than a million shares of stock changed hands in the short day trading on the New York Stock exchange this morning—the third boom day since the election.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Led by railroad shares, the list on the New York Stock exchange continued its record upward swing today on the crest of a tremendous "bull" movement started by the result of the national election.

Total bond sales yesterday were $24,329,000, the highest in recent years.

This was almost a record turnover of more than two and a quarter million shares on the New York Stock exchange Friday, with trading in 509 separate issues. The volume of business was greater than at any time since Nov. 12, 1919, when the big liquidation of all stocks occurred after the war ended. On December 20, 1923, a record of 517 separate issues traded in was set.

Railway shares took the lead, the remainder of the list advancing to points close to their high records for the year. Twenty-five railroad shares advanced an average of approximately two points each.

ATONEMENT IS SERMON TOPIC

Packard Declares Sin Is Rocking Nation

Sin made the atonement of Jesus an absolute necessity.

Thus was the question, "Was it necessary for Jesus to die?" answered by Dr. Paul Henry Packard last night at the First Christian church, his text for the evening being taken from the ninth chapter of Hebrews. "All things are cleansed with blood, for without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sin."

Quoting from Hebrew 9:26, "That once in the end Christ appeared to put away sin by sacrificing himself," Dr. Packard said that it had never been said of any other man save Jesus, that he put away sin by his death. "This is the one statement that surrounds the death of Jesus with distinctive and peculiar significance," declared the speaker. "To do away with the atonement means to do away with the divinity of Christ, the virgin birth, the lordship of Jesus, and the authenticity of the word of God."

"What is meant by the atonement of Jesus? It is God's divine plan to bring about a reconciliation between man and Himself."

"If you and I make light of sin, the cross becomes a mockery and the book becomes a lot of useless words. The only thing that separates man from God is the sin in his life and in his heart. America tonight is tottering toward a lost eternity because of the sin in the hearts of its men and women."

"Sin blights life, breaks up the home, causes hollow cheeks, and sends one down into the depths of despair. Jesus had to die to save the world from sin and death. The scriptural reason for the necessity of atonement says, 'Christ needs must suffer! God would never have let Him suffer, let the mob spit in His face, let the mob mock and laugh at Him, let Him tangle under the weight of the cross, or die such an ignominious death unless it were an absolute necessity.'

"The atonement was not a commercial transaction but a moral satisfaction—to satisfy the demands of God."

MAYOR OPPOSES SCHOOL UNIFORMS

DALLAS, Nov. 8.—"It would be just as appropriate for the city to prescribe the dress of the citizens as for the board of education to force all public school pupils to wear 'uniforms,' Mayor Blaylock said in discussing the proposed dress reform under consideration by the board."

"It might save some poor girl a headache to know that her richer classmates could not dress any better," the mayor said, "but I think such a measure would stretch the municipal powers of government too far for the public good."

A few months ago Jimmie came down here to visit me. He had still stayed on with Mr. Hamilton after Sam died.

He immediately felt called upon to become insanely jealous of Mr. Prescott because I would leave some very important business we were transacting at the time and gave my entire attention to him. Finally he went back to Pittsburg in a huff.

I never heard a word from him until the other day when he wrote me a long letter describing another woman in the most enthusiastic terms. Before I had finished it I found that he had gone and gotten himself in an awful mix-up by becoming infatuated with a little vamp—a thoroughly bad woman—who was the heroine of a first page story about six months ago when she managed to get her lover killed and her husband sent up for life for his murder.

Of course, Jimmie thinks the lady in question is "a poor misguided angel" instead of "a rag, a bone, and a hang of hair" and he not only wanted but expected me to champion her when I got over to Pittsburg. I refused, naturally, but you know I am not all diplomatic and I expect my letter was rather drastic.

I confess I am somewhat leery of the whole thing and I have a hunch that she is going to make me trouble. I know that as now I have written and definitely refused to have anything to do with the lady I shall always be walking over a slumbering volcano if she is as dangerous as I think she is. Besides all this I shall have to work in the same plant with Jimmy, who will hate me with a deadly hatred even when he finds out, as he will be sure to do, that I have called the turn on the character of his inamorata. He probably will hate me worse than before, not only for doubting his judgment in the first place but also for finding out that mine was better.

Mr. Prescott is coming back here tomorrow and then I probably will know exactly how our departure will be arranged. Doubtless I shall go to Pittsburg as soon as he arrives here so that I can start in there immediately.

I will write you again as soon as I have seen Leslie.

Do you think I did right in refusing to meet Jimmie's lady-love? I wish there were some way of my showing him the true character of the girl. Even though the judge from bench reprimanded her, as was told in the newspapers at the time of the trial, for her heartless conduct and betrayal of both her lover and her husband, Jimmie seems still to believe in her. My only hope is that he will find her out before he marries her.

Give my regards to that handsome husband of yours. Isn't he too good-looking to be allowed to go about without a keeper in the wilds of Hollywood?

I know, dear, that you are the sweetest woman in all that cesspool of scandal, but I have never heard of sweetness being given its full degree of reward.

Here's hoping you get yours. Don't take my silly joke seriously and remember I love you.

SALLY.

Magnus Johnson To Wait For Something to Turn Up

His Wife Prefers Farm and Is Sorry They Have to Return to Washington for Winter Session

ST. PAUL, Nov. 8.—Senator Magnus Johnson, who was defeated for reelection by Thomas D. Schall, republican congressman, takes his setback philosophically. Johnson said that the people had spoken and he was satisfied. He will go back on the farm and wait for "something to turn up."

"It would have been a different story if it had not been for the tremendous national campaign they put up against La Follette," Johnson said. "I carried the farmer-labor ticket and led all the way."

"I don't make so much difference to me. I was elected a year and a half ago and now I am kicked out. I left it to the people and they decided."

"I will go down to Washington for the three months session in December, prepared to do my duty as I see it, and no one will tell me what to do. The politicians aren't going to have anything to do with it."

KIMBALL, Minn., Nov. 8.—"Now that he lost out, I wish he didn't have to go back to Washington this winter," Mrs. Magnus Johnson said today about her husband's defeat. "I don't care much about it down there. It's too lonesome away from the children—and I do like the farm. We've had some pretty hard times on the farm. The salary helped some, but of course that isn't everything."

ALL MUST PAY 1924 TAX LEVY

Non-Payment Story Called Political Bunk

"Political propaganda" is the way city hall attaches today described reports current in Port Arthur to the effect that property taxes assessed for 1924 will not have to be paid if the city loses the fight for the million dollar bond issue, now pending in the courts.

The reports have been brought to the attention of G. K. Lomax and others in the tax assessor's department of this city who said they "had been told they didn't have to pay their taxes unless the city lost the bond suit."

"Tax assessments in Port Arthur were all legally made and according to law and must be paid," Lomax said in commenting on the report to the contrary. "Those who do not pay simply make their property tax delinquent, and will have to pay for it in the long run."

School Age Law to Be Enforced In Pt. Arthur

Warning that prosecution will be instituted in the courts against any who employ school boys and girls in Port Arthur during school hours, as provided in the Texas state compulsory education laws, was issued by school authorities here today.

Several boys were engaged by a Port Arthur concern Thursday to distribute circulars when the boys should have been attending school, and further employment of school students, during school hours, will not be tolerated by school officials, they said.

Hamshire-Winnie Fig Orchards

We invite everybody who is interested in Magnolia Fig raising to visit our growing fig orchards around Hamshire and winnie, after looking over and investigating every other district of Jefferson and other counties in South Texas, where fig lands are offered for sale.

They can then decide for themselves without taking other people's statements for it, where the money they intend to invest would be most safely invested.

Our fig orchards are the best proof for what we claim. Our land is well drained, is sweetened, aerated and free from alkali. The prices for our land are low, $50.00 to $60.00 per acre, and at the end of the second year a non-resident who has had his orchard developed for him by resident orchardists, would not have invested more than the low price of the raw land, all his development expenses having been covered and paid both to him by the crop of figs and cuttings produced in the second year, whereas the orchard in the third year, should produce for a non-resident owner, from $175.00 to $200.00 per acre, above all expenses.

It is of the greatest importance for all those who intend to become owners of commercial fig orchards that the bearing orchard has not cost them any excessive price, or an unreasonable profit to the promoters or developers, because the manufactured product, the PRESERVED MAGNOLIA FIG, whether the same comes from a low priced orchard or from an orchard of highly inflated values, must compete in the same markets of the United States and Canada, and when the competition becomes keen the fig produced from the low cost orchards will surely win and be a good investment long after the high cost orchard has ceased to be. Suburban property anywhere with high valuations and high taxation is at a great disadvantage compared with suitable fig land which is sold at common farm prices and corresponding taxation.

The distance from a well managed canning factory located on a railroad side track is of importance for the fig orchardists but not the distance from a city.

To facilitate low cost production, we have put on the market a quantity of good fig land located from two to three miles south and southeast of the Winnie Preserving Plant and near Stowell, at $45.00 per acre, on our usual easy terms.

At the South Texas State Fair, you will find our exhibit in the Manufacturers' Building, just opposite the White House exhibit, where our preserved figs and jams can be seen and tasted.

Illustrated booklets, itemized cost calculation for development, terms of sale, etc., by mail upon application.

A REAL MONSTER OF THE DEEP

In the great seas of those dim ages when the world was young there were many strange and terrible looking fish. None of these monsters exists today, but we know about them, because their skeletons have been found buried in rock, for in many places where towns stand today the ground was the bottom of the sea, millions of years ago. When the seas began to disappear the mud at the bottom hardened into rock. In this rock the skeletons of some of the queer fishes that lived in those seas were also buried and hardened in the rock.

Among the fiercest of these strange fish was the fish-lizard, who was a ruler of those seas. He ruled by might, for he was a wonderfully fast swimmer and his great size and enormous mouth enabled him to capture the smaller fishes easily. He had two pairs of paddles and a big, broad tail which made him able to rush through the water with a dizzying speed.

Had Large Eyes
Even his own mother couldn't have called the fish-lizard handsome. He had big, round eyes that seemed to pop out of his head. He had a huge jaw that might be armed with as many as two hundred and forty teeth, every one of which was sharp and ready for use. His whole head was so long that if you laid down full-length you wouldn't quite reach from his neck to the end of his jaw.

Had Powerful Enemy
The fish-lizard didn't have things all his own way, however, for he had a powerful enemy, the plesiosaur, who had a thick body and a short tail. He had a long, snake-like neck which he could stretch up out of the water when he was swimming. This gave him an advantage over the short-necked fish-lizard. But the fish-lizard had his powerful teeth, so when the two met there was a battle royal that would churn up those great seas as though they had been struck with a hurricane. How easily one of these animals could have wrecked a boat. If there had been sailors in those days they would have had some foundation for their tales of "sea serpents."

A FEW PUZZLE BLANKS TO FILL IN

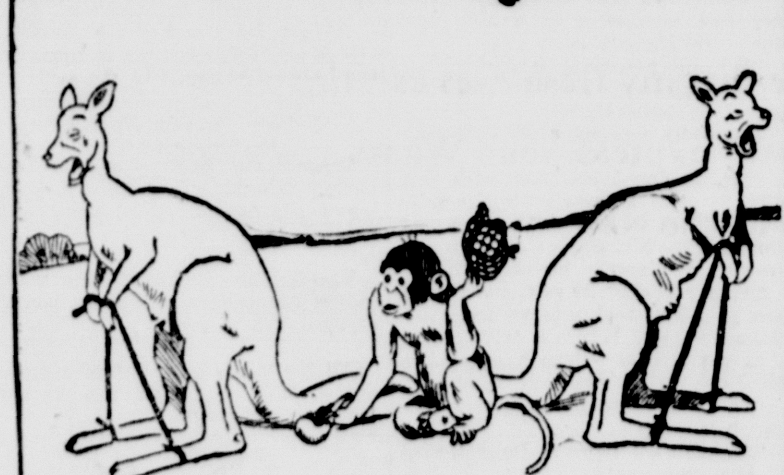

Get your pencil and see how many of the following blanks you can fill in. Follow the directions carefully as indicated.

1. "— the hills we will — night and day," said one of the gypsies to another. Fill the first blank with a word of four letters. Fill the second blank with the same letters, rearranged to make a different word.
2. "— rabbits are often raised for —." Fill the second blank with the same four letters used in the first blank, rearranged to form another word. Do the same with this sentence: "Alice made a trip —, where she attended many —."
3. "Along the — he rode a — that bright autumn afternoon." Use the same five letters to form words to fill these two blanks.
4. Fill in the blanks of this sentence with the same letter: "R—s—e—p—led the b—at—ver—b—st—n—."
5. In this little four-line poem fill the two blanks with two words formed from the same four letters:
"Said Jimmy Jones,

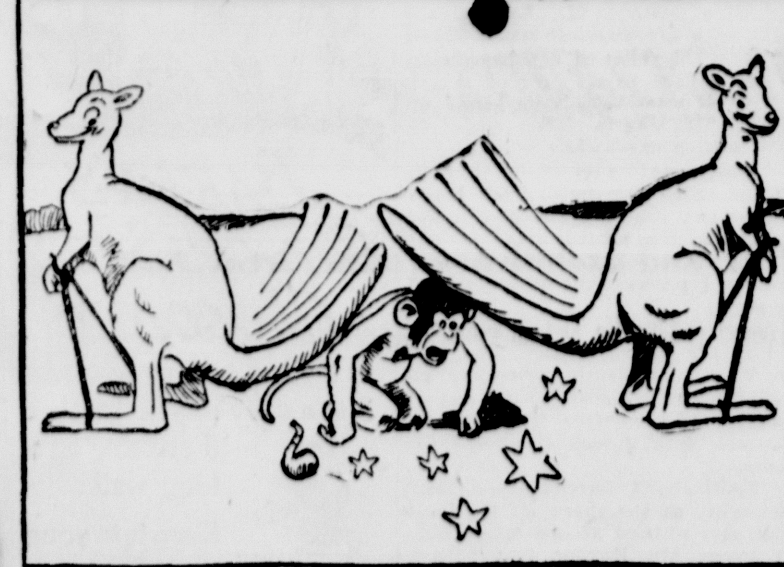

6. —. Here are five blanks. In the last three blanks place a word meaning devoured. Then add a letter in the blank in front of it and have a word meaning tardy. Then put a letter in the remaining blank, which is the first one, and have a word meaning something to write upon.
 7. "The bullet grazed the —, tearing off some of his hair as it sped, and thus exposing his —skin." Fill each blank with the same four letters, in each case arranged to make a different word.
- The answers to these will be found just below. Don't look for the answers, though, until you've filled every blank. Of course, you can do it—unless your mind's a blank.
- ANSWERS TO BLANK FILLING CONTEST: 1. Over, rove; 2. Tame, meat, east, teas; 3. Shore, horse; 4. "Roscoe poled the boat over to Boston"; 5. Care, race; 6. S-late; 7. Bear, bare.

THE DETECTIVE OF JUNGLELAND

BY MR. MONK

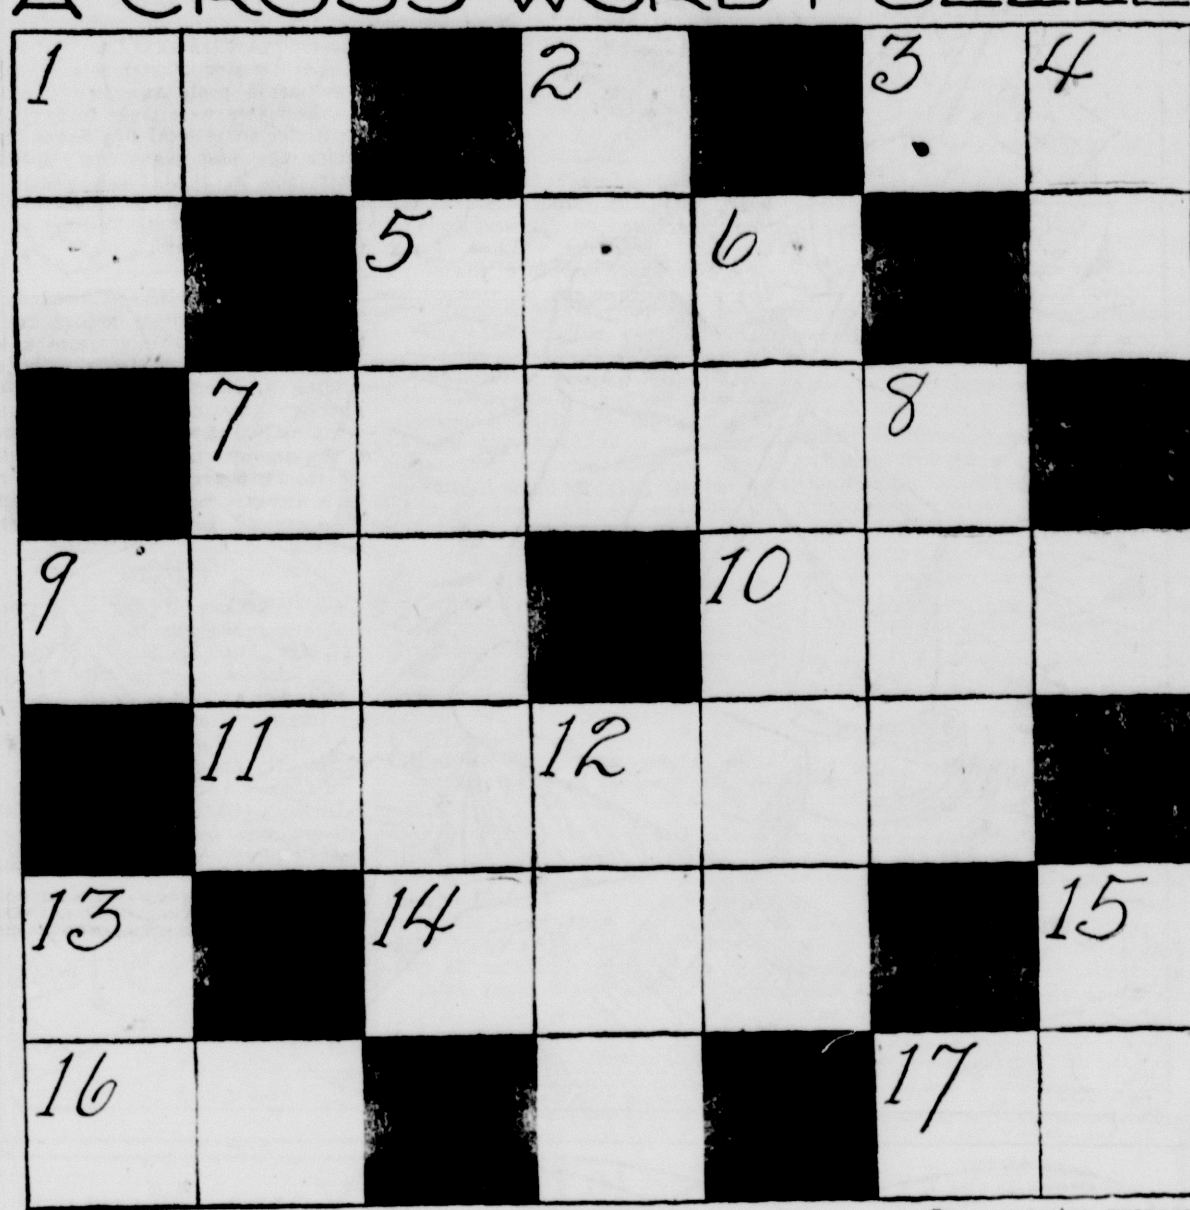

One day I had to exercise my powers as a detective on my own behalf. A couple of thieving kangaroos had stolen two pounds of my favorite tobacco and carried it away in their pouches. I thought it very saucy to steal from a detective—of all people! But I soon found the kangaroos, and as they were fast asleep, I tied them up well with cords. Tying them up soon awakened them and they began to howl. It was hot work, and I was just fanning myself with my cap, when I suddenly remembered something—but it was too late! I had forgotten how handy kangaroos are with their tails, and before I could make good my mistake, I felt several hard knocks on my head and saw stars. I remember one star in particular—it had six points on it, one for every knock the kangaroos gave me. Then I felt dizzy, and I was just going to myself, "Twinkle, twinkle, little star" when everything went black and I knew no more until I woke up in the police station, without the faintest idea how I got there!

(Watch for more of Mr. Monk's adventures soon to appear on the Boys' and Girls' Page)

A CROSS WORD PUZZLE

"What are you doing?" asked June, as she found Charles absorbed in the above puzzle. "It looks like a linoleum pattern."

"This is a cross-word puzzle," Charles replied, "and I'm trying to guess the words. Each white square means a letter of a word, and each black one means the end of a word."

"What are the numbers for?"

"A number signifies the beginning of a word either horizontally, which means straight across, or vertically, which means straight down, or both. The definition of each word is given, and you are to write down a word that will fit in to the spaces allowed. Then, if these letters check in figuring out the other words, you know your puzzle is correct. For example, Number One Horizontal means an animal. As there are only two spaces for the word, what can it be? Ox? Yes, and you know that it is correct because Number One Horizontal means 'upon,' and that, having only two spaces, could be nothing but 'on,' which also begins with 'o.' In this way they check. Isn't that easy?"

HORIZONTAL

1. animal
2. pronoun
3. small child
4. a vital organ
5. a falsehood
6. atmosphere
7. a narrow piece
8. chicken
9. negative
10. male

VERTICAL

1. upon
2. feather scarf
3. preposition
4. digestive organ
5. means of transportation

TRY OUT SOME NEW SCHOOL YELLS

What's your school yell? Have you a regular, red-blooded yell that fairly yells itself? Having a good school yell means half the spirit when it comes to winning a football game.

If you're looking for a new one to try out the rest of the football season, or to start basketball off with a bang, maybe you can get some ideas from these yells, taken from different schools all over the country.

Cremlo! Cremlo! Cremlo! Cremlo!
If you wanna know how we get it done
Fight till we win,
Never give in!
We yell! We yell! We yell!
Like—FUN!
Lakewood! Lakewood! Lakewood!

Northville!
Sis—ss—BOOM!
Sis—ss—BOOM!
Up in the air, up in the air,
When it comes to fighting,
We're right there!
Y—E—A

Rip 'em up! Rip 'em down!
We're the best in this old town!
We can't be beat!
We won't be beat!
Watch us carry 'em off their feet!

COLLECTED LAUGHS FROM THE CLASSROOMS

Knew His Bible
Teacher: "When was baseball first mentioned in the bible?"
Johnny: "When Rebecca walked to the well with the pitcher."

Correct?
Teacher: "Describe the manners and customs of the people of India."
Pupil: "They hain't got no manners and they don't wear no customs."

Educated
Kriess: "I see Gray graduated from college with very high honors."
Kross: "Indeed he did. He has so many letters after his name that his card looks as if he were advertising broadcasting stations."

True Enough
Teacher: "Alice, why do you spell 'bank' with such a big B?"
Alice: "'Cause papa said a bank was no good unless it had a large capital."

He Knew
Teacher (to John): "What comes in like a lion and goes out like a lamb?"
Johnnie: "The landlord when father pays the rent."

Telling Him
Play Coach: "I told you to bring a song book to rehearsal."
Student: "Oh, I don't need it; I use my head."
Coach: "I didn't say to bring a blank book!"

A Modern Student
Teacher: "You'll have to stay in after school and work on your geography lesson."
Willie: "I can't locate those cities on the map, but with my radio I can tune in on the whole lot."

Heard In Mathematics
Teacher: "Harold, where is your decimal point?"
Harold: "Still on the chalk."

Good Reason
After a long talk on the value of peace, good-will, and disarmament, a teacher asked his class if they objected to war.
"I do," said one boy.
"Good! Now tell us why."
"Because wars makes history—and I hate history."

Road Is Unique
The three rail cog road is unique. The engines do not draw trains; the trains on this road

Elsewhere on this page you will find the correct words for this puzzle, but do not look for them until you have tried for a long time to work out this fascinating problem.

A FREAK TRAIN THAT RUNS RIGHT UP A MOUNTAIN

Up in the White Mountains of New Hampshire there's a freak railway that runs on cogs. It was built by Sylvester Marsh, who was born in that region, but later became a Chicago business man. One summer vacation he went back to New Hampshire with a friend and went to the White Mountains of that state.

Marsh and his friend started to ascend Mt. Washington, loftiest of the north-eastern peaks. Night came on and a storm overtook the two climbers. They lost their way, but finally came to the top of the mountain by crawling on their hands and knees and having a great deal of good luck.

steepest grade of any similar railroad. The grade is so steep that in order to keep the water in the boilers in a position to make steam, the boilers are set at a sharp angle, very low in front.

Use Cog-Wheels
The third rail is not a rail at all, but a trough containing heavy cog-wheel meshes. The engine generates power to move a cog-wheel which meshes into the third rail in order to go forward. The wheels of these strange engines do no driving work—they merely support weight.

On the trestle called Jacob's Ladder the grade is 1,980 feet to the mile. The road runs only during the summer months, as it cannot operate when snow and ice get into the cog wheel meshes of the third rail.

Employees Built Sled
A few years ago the employees of the road who were up on the mountain top looking after the property used to come down the tracks on a sled they constructed and clamped on the rails. The trip down on this sled took between six and eight minutes, an average speed of sixty miles an hour.

The regular trains take one hour and forty-five minutes to make the trip one way.

IN SNOPPYQUOP LAND WHERE NOTHING SEEMS QUEER

"This is the forest primeval, the murmuring pines, and the snoppyquop." Only the pines look more like bamboos, and there are two snoppyquops instead of one. The lady on the stool (or is it a mushroom?—or a mush stool?—or a tooth stool?) is Slangy Sarah, the bathing beauty. The little gent with the butterfly net is Nonsensical Nobnob, the censor. To go on with the opening poem, "Brown as a nut is his face, bearded with moss, indistinct in the twilight. Being a bathing beauty, Sarah uses a lot of slang. Being a censor, Nobnob tried to put a stop to it. His body is a bottle of bluing."

Slangy Sarah is full of pep, vim, vigor and vinegar. As she swings her dainty little feet, a steady flow of the loveliest slang words a snoppyquop bathing beauty ever uttered comes from her pretty mouth.

"Stop—stop—stop," yells Blue Law Nobob. "Do you stutter?" asked Sarah. "Oh, pardon me, I see—talking through that bale of hay is sure to produce static. 'What—mix—make fun of my blue beard? As soon as I catch the rest of these slang words I will attend to you!" But just then the word "dumbbell" got caught in Nobob's net, and the weight of it broke the whole business, and it fell on the censor's dome, reversing his makeup, character and even his name. As he was now "Donbob" instead of "Nobnob," Sarah had no trouble in eating him up.

PETER PUZZLE SAYS:

A Canadian city and a large city of the United States are hidden in this sentence: "Commence, Bequard, and read the first paragraph, which begins, 'Welcome back, Roy; we now have our whole family here.'"

In five moves change the word "lose" to "find." A "move" is a change of a letter. Only one letter may be moved at a time.

TELLAS, LENHE, LETHE, AT-HERI. These are girls' names jumbled. Arrange the letters properly, then arrange the names so that the last letters spell a boy's name.

GUESS THE THREE-WORD SQUARE PICTURED HERE.

RLGI, NBUS, DEMN, RETO. Arrange the letters to form the correct words, and then arrange the words so that their diagonals, reading from the upper left-hand corner to the lower right-hand corner spell something that we can see in the sky.

Fill the first blank of this sentence with a word of four letters. To fill the second blank, transpose the first letter of that word so it is the last letter: "I don't want to — my suit with those old —" objected Fred.

ARAB PEARL DIVERS

Among the Arabian pearl divers there is a superstition that pearls come from a raindrop which fell while the oyster had its mouth open, and each drop of rain thus caught is a prize for the diver.

The outfit of an Arabian diver differs from that of the American, chiefly in the fact that it is so much less elaborate. The complete outfit consists of white overalls to cover the dark skin, as the divers believe sharks avoid white people; a clothes-pin for the nose, leather thimbles for scratching the shells, a basket to hold the shells caught, and a rope attached to a girdle to draw the diver up—that is all.

Diver Faces Danger
The diver is in constant danger when bringing the pearls from the bottom of the ocean to the surface. Most of all, he fears the shark, as during the pearl season a number of divers lose their lives, or are permanently injured by this powerful animal. Then, the water, in time, will make him subject to rheumatism.

When the diver goes down for pearls, he quickly fills the basket, tugs on the rope, and is pulled up. While his basket is emptied, he takes a short breathing spell, and then goes down again; and so on all day.

Open Pearl Oysters
When the pearl oysters are brought up, they are left on deck over night, and next morning are opened by means of a curved knife six inches long. Until a few years ago all the shells were thrown back into the sea as useless, but now they are brought to shore by the ton and are deposited in some merchant's yard. The natives scrape off the outside roughness, crack open the shells in wooden crates and export them.

When the pearls are brought to shore they are classified according to weight, size, shape, color and texture. In sizing them, the merchant uses a number of beautiful sieves which fit into each other. The smallest has holes as big as the end of a pencil, while the largest sieve, which is about six inches across, has holes as fine as a dust sieve.

Merchants Carry Valuables
During the pearl season the Arab merchants sit cross-legged in their houses, sifting pearls, and arranging them into little piles. These merchants are indeed a queer kind of people. They carry the most valuable pearls around with them everywhere, tied up in turban-like twill, unmindful of the danger attached. They have no safes nor banks, and to them it seems less dangerous to carry their valuables around with them and run the risk of being attacked and robbed. Such robberies, however, are very rare.

Answers to Word Puzzles:
The two hidden cities are Quebec and New York.
Change "lose" to "find" in this manner: Lose, fore, fore, fire, fine, find. There are a couple of other ways of doing it, but this is the easiest.
The jumbled names of girls are: Stella, Ethel, Bertha, Helen. The name the last letters form is Alan.
The jumbled words are: Buns, girl, torn, mend. The diagonals spell "bird."
The words which fill the blanks are: sell, oils.
Answer to today's picture puzzle: The words which form the three-word square are hat, ape, and tea.
Not At All
Employer: "Not afraid of early hours, are you?"
Sam: "You can't close too early, to suit me."

Dr. Frank Crane's Editorials

WE ARE ALL ALIKE
After all, everybody is alike. We spend much time and thought on cultivating our differences. Every nation thinks that it is superior to every other nation. Every man thinks that his case is different from that of every other man.

And yet we are all alike in many things. We share many of the brute characteristics. We are hungry, and sleep, and thirsty, and courageous or cowardly, just as the beasts are. Our hair rises and our blood curdles with fear. We have the same sex instincts that they have.

In addition to this all men have the same or similar hopes and fears. All men want to get on and have the same dread of failure. The same emotions are instinctively in the Chinese and the Arab, the Japanese and the Europeans, that are found in ourselves.

There is very little in any of us that is very distinctively his own.

We are all born of a woman and sooner or later must lie down in our grave.

During this short interval of time, every bosom is swept by similar ambitions and fears.

Progress is made by the slow accumulation of virtue in the race and is not handed on to us by the individual.

Here and there some man seems to be superior to his fellows, but he, in turn, must lay down his burden and take his place with the silent majority.

The one thing that is uniform and persists on earth without pause, is humanity.

Gradually civilization irons out the differences between men and reduces them to a common level. That man is the most valuable to humanity who does the most to serve it. A man's final worth is estimated by the value he has been to his race. "The tallest and the smallest among us," says Thackeray, "are so alike diminutive and pitifully base, it is needless to calculate the difference."

In New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The loneliness of New York is indicated by the great number of dogs to be seen here.

Community life is almost entirely lacking in the vast city. You may live for years in one house and not know ten people in the entire block.

Thus lonely New Yorkers turn to dogs for companionship. In any park you will see scores of them on leash. Short-legged ones and long-legged ones. Short-haired ones and long-haired ones. Short-eared ones and long-eared ones. Short-tailed ones and long-tailed ones.

I always pity these dogs which never have the chance to run free. I think it is nothing short of criminal to keep a collie or a police dog cooped up in an apartment.

However, I wonder if it isn't downright criminal to keep a child in a New York apartment.

Some very fine people live in New York. Over on the Bowery, for instance, is a young man who manages a house of ill repute. And he pays his father and mother to manage another one for him.

Three theatres in the Times Square district are displaying in their lobby photographs of nude and semi-nude chorus girls. It is the general belief that this sort of advertising attracts the men. It has been my personal observation that the women who gather about the photographs outnumber the men two to one.

I never have seen a man trying to fill a sieve with water, but the other night I saw a man trying to sweep a Broadway sidewalk while the throngs were trooping to theaters.

FRENCH PRISON OPENS FOR AMERICAN VET

CHERBOURG, Nov. 8.—John Ayotte, an American world war veteran from Cheboygan, Mich., sailed for home today after two years spent in a French prison for arson. President Doumergue pardoned Ayotte. The American married a French girl and afterwards quarreled with his father-in-law. The latter's barn was burned down and Ayotte accused of the crime.

MRS. HARDING ABOUT SAME, DOCTORS SAY

MAIRION, Ohio, Nov. 8.—The condition of Mrs. Warren G. Harding was "about the same today," it was said at the White Oaks Farm, where she is under the care of Dr. Carl M. Sawyer, for a recurrence of the old malady which has troubled her for years.

The mud slung during a campaign gathered together would make several mountains out of mole hills.

LIFE SAVING WORK PART OF RED CROSS PROGRAM

Once each year the Port Arthur Chapter of the American Red Cross conducts life saving classes in charge of a recognized expert. This expert is available to Port Arthur only because it has a Red Cross Chapter here. Without such a chapter these workers would not be available. And who is there that will deny the value of such work?

During the past week, a Red Cross swimming and life savings expert visited Port Arthur and conducted classes for all who desired to attend. Proficiency in swimming entitles one to take these lessons.

Each year, the rivers, lakes and the gulf take their annual toll in human lives. Some drown because they are not expert swimmers and some good swimmers unacquainted with life savings methods drown trying to rescue their unfortunate companions. Two or three instances of this will come to the reader's mind. The deaths occurred at McFadden's beach and one local boy, an expert swimmer, gave up his life in an endeavor to save others.

To lessen these deaths each year the Red Cross spends vast sums of money in sending expert swimmers and life savers around the country, visiting the various chapters and conducting lessons among the boys and girls of the community. If only one life were saved each year through the efforts of those who have taken the lessons, would not the money we contribute toward the Red Cross be worth while?

During the past year more than 25 high school boys qualified in life saving work. These 25 boys will eventually teach the method to other boys and so the work goes on from one group to another. The value is incalculable. The results worth while. And all this is possible through the work of the American Red Cross. First aid classes will be conducted the coming year with the Camp Fire Girls and certain adult groups throughout the community. Soon the work will spread to every group in the local chapter's territory and who is there that will say the money they give is not well spent?

The fund asked for the coming year is $18,000—a small sum for a city of 35,000 people. The per capita cost is approximately fifty cents a head.

There are many ways of contributing to this fund. You may give in cash the entire sum. You may pledge so much now and so much every quarter. Better still to divide your contribution up each month giving the solicitors your checks when they call. These checks should be for a certain sum of money to go to The Red Cross monthly.

The drive opens on November 11. Make your plans now. It will save much time and effort if your contributions and pledges are already made out for the solicitor when he visits you. The drive itself will extend over many days. We ought to finish it in less than a week. The community itself should be so "sold" on the value of the Red Cross that no doubt exists as to the final realization of the amount asked.

FIGHTING

In his cellar, Bill Dougherty finds a potato which, fighting to live and reproduce, had sent out roots nine feet long over the concrete floor. These roots were manufactured out of air, dust and dampness.

Compared with this potato, most of us have a cinch. What we call "high cost of living" and "battle to make both ends meet" are not unusual to that form of life known as man. They exist all through nature—the struggle to survive. The strength that maintains life is generated by struggle. Life of ease is life of decay and early extinction.

SHORT

Average American is two inches shorter than in civil war days, claims Dr. John Harvey Kellogg. He blames it on the "eat and run" habit. That's medically plausible.

But a more probable reason is that evolution is responsible. We don't need to be as tall, so we aren't. Sitting in street cars and autos, instead of walking, is going to cause interesting changes in the human race within a few generations. Unexercised limbs, after generations, will become shriveled and weak, just as most of us have lost our ancestors' power to wag the ears. The muscles are there, but dormant.

SILKEN

It is just about four centuries since the world's first silk stockings were worn at a wedding by King Henry II of France. He was the envy of all his subjects.

Today any one can afford silk stockings. Machinery and modern systematized industry have made them available at a cheap price. We are all kings, by ancient standards—and for this, business men are responsible, not politicians.

The Sign
Watkins was walking down our main street when he saw a stranger coming toward him with outstretched hand and a smile of recognition on his face.

"Well, hello there, old top!" exclaimed the stranger gentleman, when they met. "It certainly has been a long time since I saw you. But you haven't changed any. How are all the folks and everything?"

Watkins, however, was not impressed by the man's effusive greeting.

"That's a good line you have," he replied biting, "but you can't put it over on me. Now will you move on up the street, or shall I call an officer?"

The man, chagrined, walked away immediately. Watkins started on, then turned suddenly and called to the stranger:

"Wait a minute; I want to ask you something."
"What, it?" he demanded, suspicious.

"I always thought I was rather sophisticated," Watkins said, "and I even thought I looked the part. But now I don't know. Tell me, what was it about my appearance that made you think you could work that old game on me?"

The stranger grinned.

"Well," he replied, "I saw you were wearing rubbers."

The Editor's Gossip Shop
Over this weekend we expect you to write more good humor than you have done ever since The Fun Shop was opened.
And not only to write it legibly, and with typewriter or ink, but to mail it in time so your envelope can reach us in Monday's mail.
Let's break the record!

Natural Inference
"Let me see," murmured the young wife at her writing desk. "I want the parlor papered and I must have new shades. The dining-room chandelier is very shabby and must be replaced. The bathroom needs new tiling. It like a new gas range and built-in refrigerator."
"To whom are you writing, dear?" asked her girl chum.
"To our landlord."
"I thought maybe you were writing to Santa Claus."

Just the Opposite

MAKE YOUR ACCOUNTS TELL THE REAL STORY

Resolved: There will be no miscellaneous column in our household account book.

Every penny you spend should contribute definitely toward some angle of living. Find out what your money brings you before you spend. And once you have spent, set the money down in the proper column.

Mrs. Jones paid five dollars to have her kitchen sink raised to a proper height—a raise from the hopeless 30 inches to the comfortable 38 inches she needed. When she attempted to put the money in her account book she was puzzled. Surely getting the kitchen sink raised wasn't shelter, and yet it wasn't food. It couldn't be repair, for the sink was good as new—it was only its location that was wrong. It was easy to dismiss the clothing column, for one does not wear a kitchen sink, but the advancement column caused her to ponder for certainly the sink had been advanced if the bank account hadn't. But maybe after all it was a luxury—the fee of Mr. Jones' rested back after a few days' use of the elevated sink made her quite content to let the item stay in the luxury column. It wasn't until after some months that Mrs. Jones suddenly remembered the upkeep column under shelter and the sink raising item was put where it belonged all the time.

A miscellaneous column allows slovenly thinking about your financial affairs. Think straight about your spending and you will have more money for investment.

Buzzards Feeding On Slough Fish

BEAUMONT, Texas, Nov. 8.—Sloughs in the vicinity of Willow marsh northwest of Dutch Joe's have so little water in them that fish are being eaten by buzzards. George White, county surveyor, stated today that surveys had been made in that territory for W. P. H. McFadden and that while they were working they came upon numbers of small water holes where there were so many fish that they could scarcely move. In many instances, part of the bodies would be above the water and several hundred would be crowded in a small hole.

TAXPAYERS TO VOTE ON BOND ISSUE

BEAUMONT, Nov. 8.—A $60,000 bond issue will be voted on Saturday by taxpayers in the French school district, according to Miss Mary Sandall, county school superintendent. Voters will be asked whether or not they favor taking over the indebtedness of the old French district. In case the bonds are voted a new high school building will be erected.

CHAPTER XI Nancy Explains

The Italian Garden at Flower Acres, though conventional in design and detail, was so planned that it was always a picturesque mass of bloom and greenery. In one corner was a specially attractive arbor, and here sat Finley and Nan Raynor.

"It's out of the question, dear," he said, "that you and I should shun each other's society for a foolish feeling of convention. Your husband is dead, and when the time comes, you are going to marry me."

"Oh, no, Malcolm—never!" "Why not, pray?" she smiled at her as at a wayward child. "I'm not going to hurry you, Nan. I'm not even going to trouble you with my love-making—but, unless you can look me straight in the eyes and tell me you don't love me—then I shall continue to hope, yes, and expect."

"Oh, hush, Malcolm—don't talk like that. I never can marry you until this matter is cleared up—and then—less than ever!"

"What do you mean by then less than ever?" "I mean that when the truth is known about—about Douglas' death—it will be impossible for me to marry anybody."

"Except me! Now, Nan, dearest, you must confide in me." "Never!" and Nan Raynor's face was so full of horror and alarm that Finley himself felt a shudder of fear.

"What an opportunity!" exclaimed an exultant voice, and Dobbins stepped inside the arbor. "Just the people I want to see. And I will inform you that unless you both answer truly the questions I'm going to put to you, it will be a very serious mistake."

"We are not obliged to incriminate ourselves," Finley said. "No, but I shall judge by your manner, by your attitude—ah, I may say I shall judge more by what you say than by what you do."

"Be careful, Nan," Finley said, "of what you don't say." But though his tone was so casual it was obvious a forced lightness.

"First, Mrs. Raynor, as you may or may not know, we retrieved that parcel you threw into the Falls." "Yes!" said Nan, in a low tone. "And we found that it contained a bottle outfit—to put it plainly, some bottles of morphine."

"Yes!" "I want you to tell me, if you please, why you threw it away with such secrecy and care?" "Because," Nan spoke with an effort, "because, if it had been discovered in my possession or if I had been known to destroy it—I would have been misjudged in the matter."

"Misjudged? Am I misjudging you now, when I assume that the morphine in question belonged to you?" "Nan's great eyes looked dark and troubled, and she glanced from one man to the other, as if uncertain what course to pursue.

"Oh, you suppose it belonged to me, do you? Aren't you quite sure? Where did you buy it?" "I—I didn't buy it."

"Where did you get it, then? How did you get it? That stuff is not easily procurable—though its devious uses seem to manage it, somehow." "I found it," Nan said, slowly. "It belonged to somebody else."

"Where did you find it?" Dobbins cold glance seemed fairly to hypnotize her into answering, and she said, "Among my husband's belongings."

San Antonio, Texas.—"I used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for feminine trouble, and it helped me very much; I suffered at times so I would have to go to bed. I certainly am glad to tell others what this medicine has done for me."—Mrs. J. D. Scott, 223 Keller Street.

GIBBONS IS RESIGNED TO LIFE SENTENCE
ORANGE, Nov. 8.—Resigned to his future, William Gibbons, whose life sentence imposed by a jury more than a year ago on a charge of murdering Louis Moreland was Wednesday upheld by the court of criminal appeals at Austin, said today he had no complaint to make of anybody.
He said his attorneys had done all in their power and though he felt life sentence was severe he would accept his fate without a murmur.

Old Folks' Ailments
"I began taking Black-Draught over fifty years ago and my experience with it stretches over a good long time," says Mr. Joe A. Blakemore, a Civil War veteran, now a prominent citizen of Floyd, Tex. "It is the best laxative I know of for old people. . . . A good many years ago, in Virginia, I used to get bilious and I found that was the best and quickest relief I could get. Since I came to Texas I have these bilious attacks every now and then—and I find a little Black-Draught soon straightens me out. After a few doses, in little or no time I'm all right again." Thedford's Black-Draught acts on the stomach, liver and bowels in a gentle, natural way, assisting digestion and relieving constipation.

YOUTH BEING TRIED ON CHECK CHARGE
Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Nov. 8.—Clarence D. Cunningham, alleged to have passed six forged checks in the amount of $50 each on Port Arthur merchants, went to trial in 58th district court on Friday. He was brought back to Jefferson county from Lake Charles by Officer Y. Q. Brizendine.
He is the second young man charged with forgery to be tried here in the past two weeks. Elbert Gates, who also was charged with possession of forged instruments with intent to pass, was tried on four cases this week, receiving a suspended sentence on the first case and penitentiary terms on the other three. Both Cunningham and Gates operated at Port Arthur.

COURT WILL CANVASS ELECTION ON MONDAY
BEAUMONT, Nov. 8.—Commissioners court will on Monday morning officially receive election returns from the 37 precincts over the county and canvass them. Although the results of the election are well known, all figures have not been turned over to the county clerk. The ballots from Sabine were brought to the county clerk's office this morning and one other precinct is still to be heard from.

Local Corn Shipments To Hit High Mark
Port Arthur this winter will be export center for the biggest corn shipments in the history of the local port, Chamber of Commerce and Shipping believe following assurances from big grain shippers recently received.
Port Arthur has shipped practically no corn the last few years, consignments being mostly small grain, chamber officials said. Port Arthur's increased port facilities and means of handling grain shipments, is reason corn shippers to be directing consignments through here, it is thought.

It is as useful in winter as in summer. On account of Port Arthur's changeable temperature it may be warm in the middle of winter. Always be prepared with ice. The News Sport Editor

THE spotlight of sportdom trains its brilliant rays on Memorial Stadium in Austin, Texas, today, where the Longhorns of Texas University enter the field to defend the spot against a hated rival—Baylor University's Bruins.

There are few words that previous to the clash can describe the game that will be fought in Austin today before the set of sun. Perhaps some poet laureate may arise from out the dirt and grime of that scrap to tell in thrilling theme the deeds of valor that warriors of the grid-iron did.

But until it's over, the sport scribes, critics and whatnots are juggling the facts to dope the turn, and tomorrow the "I-told-you-so's" will hold the field.

Scribes Favor Bruins
Austin scribes have loudly acclaimed that Baylor should win, and according to their dope, the boys from Waco should be victorious by a good-sized score. But dope often gets the bucket too full, and then it's booted for a row of Mongolian apple cans, and that is just what the Longhorns are likely to do to the Baptists today.

Baylor outweighs Texas over 12 pounds to the man. But that weight may not carry the Bruins through the line that held like the proverbial stone wall against the powerful and highly touted Florida eleven. Baylor hasn't got a line plunger; that has been shown through the season. Baylor is just lucky, gets more than her share of the breaks and takes advantage of all of them.

That Aggie Affair
Baylor drubbed the Aggies unmercifully, just like the Rice Owls whipped Texas. But the Bears grabbed up the faulty play of mucky-fingered Farmer backside and made tails where the Aggies were weak.

Still, the victory put Baylor in a distinctive class for titular honors in the Southwest conference, and critics are acclaiming her chances as good. The same time may not be sung after today, for Baylor is going up against Texas with a team slightly crippled by the tangle with Texas A. and M. while Texas, playing loosely against the Owls last week-end, is likely to send the strongest team in the field "Doleful Doc" Stewart has presented against any club this year.

A Psychological Trend
The Texas team, according to dope coming from Austin this morning, is in the same psychological trend of mind that prevailed just before the first whistle sounded that sent the Longhorns against Florida. Baylor lacks the aerial attack that Rice and S. M. U. developed; Baylor lacks a plunger.

But Coach Frank Bridges has been fighting against a spirit of over-confidence within his ranks, and has been pointing his club to today's contest in Austin. Little information has come from Frank, who is just naturally reticent, and Mr. Bridges is also noted for turning the unexpected. He has developed a powerful, fighting team, while on the other hand, the Longhorns have been beaten by teams they were picked to defeat by large majorities.

Baylor Has the Edge
Now you have about all the dope there is to peddle without telling you about each bruise and barked up spot on each individual player. Baylor has the edge by virtue of the way both clubs have been playing, and while Texas starts on a lucky rampage like the Bruins have been going, it is hard to stop her. Don't say that Austin College defeated Baylor 7 to 3 and that Austin College is a weak team, and for that reason Texas should win. This writer would have grave fears for the Longhorns against Austin College, if conclusions were drafted from scores, since the latter drubbed the Owls Friday.

Four sports scribes out of every five through the state, in a summary this morning, give Baylor the edge.

LONGHORNS IN BEST OF TRIM

AUSTIN—Coach E. J. Doc Stewart will enter football team in good physical condition in the Baylor game today. This is the first time this season that the Longhorns have reached a major engagement in even fair physical condition.

Line Capt. Frank "Cotton" Dayvault is the only man, as the situation now is, who will not be able to play in the opening stadium game. He suffered further injuries to his weakened shoulder in the Rice game Saturday, and it is probable that he will not be able to go again this year. But at that, the Longhorns have lost a great player. Dayvault has been the inspiration of the Longhorn line during the past two years, and this spirit will be harder to replace than his playing.

Beats Tommy Burns
DETROIT, Nov. 8.—Bob Sage, Detroit middleweight, won a decision in 10 rounds over Tommy Burns, Detroit.

More Fights Draw
EAST CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Ted Moore, English 155-pounder, and Joey O'Hara of Fort Dodge, Iowa, and Chicago, fought to a draw in their 10-round battle here.

Hall Benefit Match Announced Here

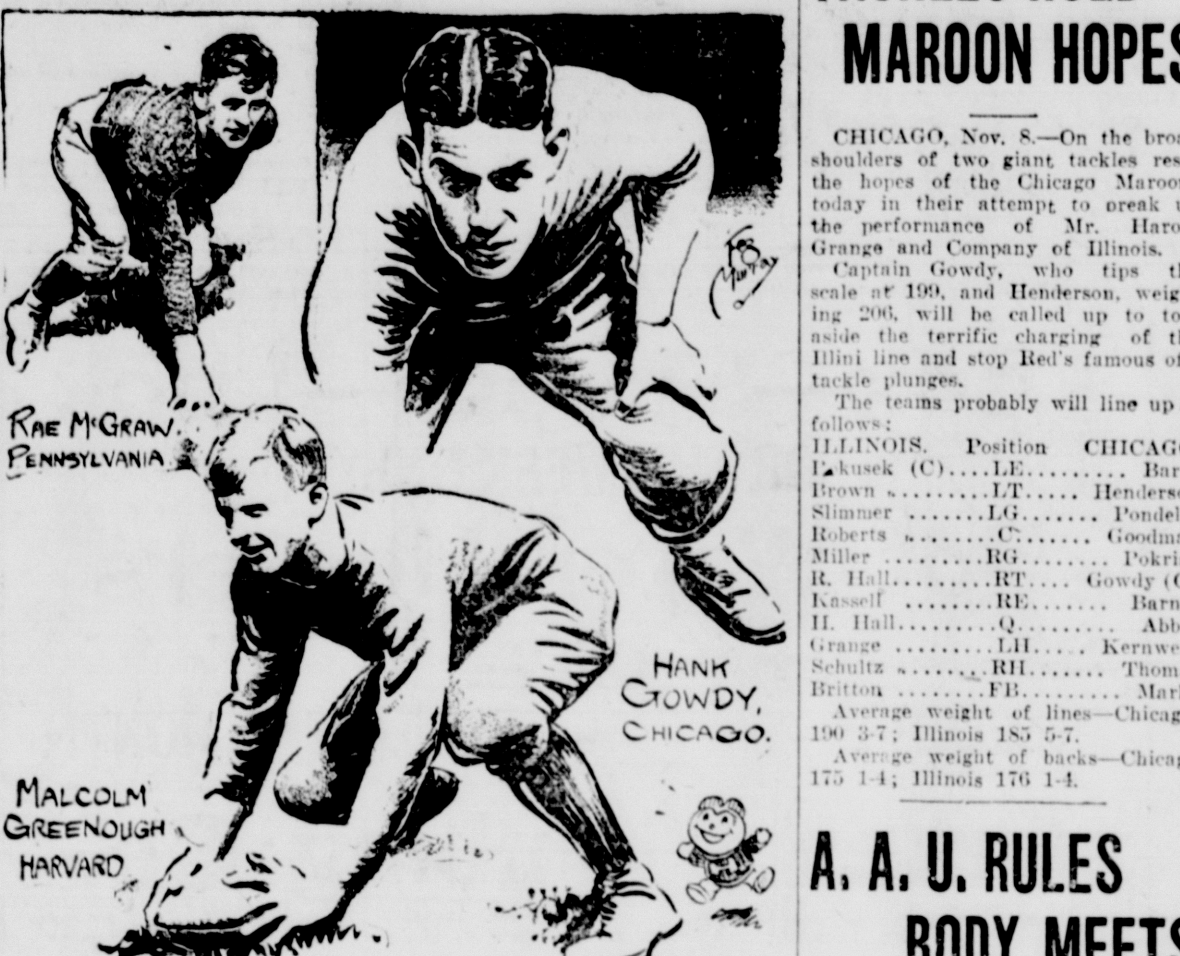

CHARLIE HALL, well-known Jefferson county all-around athlete, feature attraction of several wrestling bills, star twirler in the semi-pro ranks, and a former member of the undefeated Pirate team of Port Arthur is ill.

That was the word made public here several days ago, and yesterday Harry L. Conchlin, southern swimming champion, John Bourne, barber, and J. D. Bryan, tailor, all of whom know Charlie personally, got together and announced they would promote a benefit athletic carnival of boxing, wrestling and whatnot for Charlie.

The bill will be presented in the Port Arthur Athletic club on the night of Friday, November 14, only a few days away. All local athletes who will participate are urged to get in touch with any of the three men named in the foregoing. All funds for the match will be turned over to Hall.

Hall was a great athlete. Today he is bedridden, waiting patiently in his unflinching, indomitable way, the beckon of the Great Beyond. Physicians say Hall can never recover. When that word came to Port Arthur, Port Arthur got busy. Hall deserves it, fellows, so let's support the move.

1924 Football Captains By Feg Murray

The scrappy and successful team from Pennsylvania this year is led by Rae McGraw, and, as any follower of sports knows, teams led by men named McGraw usually get some place. Rae plays right halfback and his work at advancing the ball is of the highest quality. He is also a fine passer and a good kicker of ability.

Franklin Gowdy, otherwise known as "Hank," is the pilot of the 1924 Chicago Maroons. His line playing is always masterful, very few big gains ever going off him, while many come from behind him and go goalward. Hank was chosen on various All-Conference and All-Western elevens in 1923.

Malcolm Greenough, leader of the Harvard team, was a center in 1923 and a guard before that, but was shifted to right tackle this year and has filled the position well. So well, in fact, that he is rated as one of the best tackles in the east. "Mal" is out to avenge the defeat suffered last year at the hands of Yale and can be counted on to give a good account of himself this Saturday. Greenough is only 20 years old, 6 feet 2 inches tall, weight 185 pounds.

Aggies Develop Fast Drives, Offensive, To Drub Frogs

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 8.—Yesterday on Kyle Field, the Horned Frogs from Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, fell before a terrific attack of a powerful Aggie team, 28 to 0.

The Aggies, on the offensive through the first three periods, came back in the final stanza and developed a driving attack that held the Frogs helpless. Two touchdowns in the first two periods and two in the third accounted for the victory. Goal after touchdown was made after each tally.

Aggressive line work of the Aggies featured the game. The faulty punts of Clark, T. C. U. quarterback, were turned into scores for A. and M. T. C. U.

Names Tennis Team
AUSTIN—Coach D. A. Penick of the University of Texas has announced the personnel of the three tennis squads for the fall term. They are as follows:

Varsity—Louis Thalheimer, captain; Ernest Funkhouser, Edward Mather, Jack Lightower, Leo Brewster, Terrell Sledge, Albert Love, Howard Key, Clifton Wilkenson and Gensberg.

Short-horns—Willis, Peek, Hennig, Clinton, Toob, Boon and Crisp.

Freshmen—Buckalew, LaCoste, Arnette, Dumanagan, Murray, Brownlee, Minchen and Stiles.

This lineup is only a temporary arrangement, as any member of a squad may be challenged by any player who has a lower ranking. Plans are now being perfected for a fall journey, with Austin players matched against the university students.

Second Grid Fatality
HARRISBURG, Ill.—The second football fatality in Harrisburg this year occurred this morning when Tony Gamoletto died in a local hospital from injuries sustained while playing for the team.

Special for Game
ATHENS—A special train will carry football fans from this city to Jacksonville where the Athens Hornets will play the Jacksonville Hi eleven. Neither team has been defeated this season, and Friday's game promises to be a "tug of war." The delegation will be headed by the Athens concert band.

Second Stringers
NEW HAVEN, Nov. 8.—A team of second string Yale players will face Maryland here this afternoon, while most of the varsity journey to Cambridge to garner information at the Harvard-Princeton game.

Harry Woodruff Dead
ATHENS, Ga.—Harry Woodruff, 39 years old, prominent insurance man of Columbus, Ga., and remembered as one of Georgia University's greatest football players, died here this morning following an automobile accident last Friday night when he was a member of a party driving from Athens to Columbus for the annual homecoming football game between Georgia and Tennessee.

Armistice Day Scrap
RANGER—Interest is mounting rapidly in this section in the Armistice Day struggle to take place here between the Cisco Lobos and the Ranger Bulldogs, who meet in the district semi-finals. The stands will be greatly enlarged and preparations to handle a crowd equal to the great throngs that attended the Cisco-Abilene and the Cisco-Breckenridge games will be made.

OWLS HELD TO 6-2 END FRIDAY

HOUSTON, Nov. 8.—Playing on a field drenched with showers which made the field dangerous and the ball slippery the Austin Kangaroos eked out a six to two win over the Rice Owls on the home field Friday afternoon and practically eliminated the Heismann men from the conference running.

The game was marred by frequent fumbles and poor punting, a poor combination of both accounting for the total figures of the two teams.

Alfred, Kangaroo quarterback, was easily the star of the game. His sterling work in passing, punting and running furnished one of the best demonstrations ever seen on the local field.

The Kangaroos scored in the first quarter after Wilfred, Owl halfback, had punted but 12 yards out of bounds on Rice's 22-yard line. On the second play Alfred passed to Smith, end, for a touchdown.

Rice scored two points in the closing moments of the third quarter when Rollins, Kangaroo center snapped the ball back on the ground over his own goal line and Alfred fell on the ball. It went for a touchdown.

The score:

Austin College.....6 0 0 0—6
Rice.....0 0 2 0—2

TACKLES HOLD MAROON HOPES

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—On the broad shoulders of two giant tackles rests the hopes of the Chicago Maroons today in their attempt to break up the performance of Mr. Harold Grange and Company of Illinois.

Captain Gowdy, who tips the scale at 190, and Henderson, weighing 200, will be called up to toss aside the terrific charging of the Illinois line and Red's famous off-tackle plunges.

The teams probably will line up as follows:

ILLINOIS. Position CHICAGO.
Lakusek (C).....L.E..... Barto
Brown.....L.T..... Henderson
Slimmer.....L.G..... Pondelick
Roberts.....C..... Goodman
Miller.....R.G..... Pokrish
Hill.....R.E..... Gowdy (C)
Kasell.....R.Q..... Barnes
H. Hall.....C..... Abbot
Grange.....L.H..... Kernawen
Schultz.....R.H..... Thomas

Average weight of lines—Chicago, 190 3-7; Illinois 185 5-7.
Average weight of backs—Chicago 175 1-4; Illinois 176 1-4.

To Fight Net Rule

NEW YORK.—The boys who play the game and then write it will have a grand jury indict them, or to turn them loose, like kiddies in the juke party, W. T. Tilden II, one of his country's "Big Bills," is a member of the committee.

If it hadn't been for this "Big Bill's" nerve, the chances are that tennis authorities — perhaps they should be called moguls, as they say when referring to baseball heads or locomotives—would have got away with their orders.

But when they stepped on "Big Bill's" feet, the second Mr. Tilden's voice came in first. Bill held that writing tennis articles had nothing to do with his standing as an amateur. Vincent Richards, another lad who doesn't take medicine unless he is ill, stood with Tilden.

A. U. has jurisdiction, and electing a president, four vice presidents and a secretary-treasurer for the ensuing year.

New Navy Team

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 8.—A practically new Navy team will have its tryout here today against the University of Vermont. The entire backfield are new men due to the ineligibility of the regular backfield on account of low grades in class rooms.

CASE AGAINST FIRPO DISMISSED BY WHITE

WASHINGTON.—An order for the arrest for deportation of Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine prize fighter, was ordered dismissed today by the Department of Labor.

Assistant Secretary White signed an order canceling the warrant on which the Argentine boxer was arrested when he arrived in this country.

Henry Benkert

One of the leading point scorers in the east is Henry Benkert of Rutgers. Since the opening of the season he has been right at the top of the heap. His closest rival is Tryon of Colgate, who has alternated with him in holding the lead.

Chesbro, Maker of Marberry, Missing At The World Series

By NEA Service
WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—In Washington's brilliant victory over the New York Giants, the memory of one man who played a part was lost sight of.

Back in 1905, when Clarke Griffith managed New York in the American League, Jack Chesbro was his star pitcher, as valuable as Johnson is to the Nats.

This spring Griffith, remembering Chesbro's wizardry as a pitcher, signed him to coach Washington's many rookie twirlers.

At Tampa, Chesbro was impressed by Marberry, told the world that he would be a great pitcher. He spent much time working with the Nat's great relief pitcher.

No doubt Chesbro's instruction had much to do with Marberry's success. It is unfortunate he was not with the team when it won a world series to see the fruits of his work.

About six weeks after the season opened, Chesbro for some reason was released.

Princeton Tigers Stalk Over Bridge to Meet the Crimson

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 8.—Princeton's vaunted Tiger, renowned for its fighting heart, stalked across the bridge today for a charge on the elephant of Harvard.

Held in rather low esteem by the dopesters, Princeton had only that fighting heart to bolster the hopes of the thousands who surrounded the battlefield plugging for a Tiger victory in the first of the "big three" games.

Harvard, with a ponderous team, was held a two-to-one favorite in the betting and there were few takers. It was taken almost for granted by all those who didn't carry an organ and black arm band that Harvard would down Princeton today and would jump all over Yale in two weeks.

Beautiful weather prevailed. The sun shone from clear skies and there was hardly enough breeze to ruffle the flags on top of the big stadium.

No lineups were announced definitely by the coaches, but it is probable that they will start as follows:

Princeton Position Harvard
Stout.....L.E..... Robb
Beattie.....L.T..... Condy
Hills.....L.G..... Theopold
McMillan.....C..... Addie
Howard.....R.G..... Daley
Gates.....R.T..... Greenough
Drews.....R.E..... Gannoch
Williams.....Q..... Stafford
Slagle.....L.E..... Miller
Weekes.....R.H..... Hammond
Gilligan.....R.B..... Gehlke

Can a player be shifted from a line position on offense to a backfield position on defense?

A player occupying the position of center, guard or tackle on offense can be shifted back of the line on defense.

What conditions govern the position of the players in a shift play, when a majority of the men are out of their natural position?

In all shift plays the players must come to an absolute stop in their new position and remain there long enough to prevent any doubts in the minds of the officials as to the legality of the play. Since the shift play depends on speed for deception and success, such plays are often ruled illegal by the officials who set up the claim that the players failed to come to a stop in their new positions.

They certainly can, provided they are on-side when the ball is kicked.

TICKETS FOR MUSTANG BAYLOR TILT ON SALE

WACO.—Tickets for the S. M. U. Baylor game, which will be played in Dallas on November 15, have gone on sale in both Waco and Dallas. Reservations are being made by R. N. Blackwell, business manager of S. M. U., at Dallas, or by E. W. Blovenec, business manager of Baylor at Waco. The early sale of seats indicate that they will go quickly and fans will be assured of seats only by sending in their reservations early.

Mavericks Going Good

EASTLAND.—The Eastland Mavericks may not have won many games this season, but they have scored in every game they have played.

Cobb's goal line was uncrossed until they met Eastland last week, but the Mavericks made a touchdown. Breckenridge, in the first seven games this year, was scored on only once—and that was by Eastland. Ranger had shut out all opponents till they met Eastland and not only did the Mavericks score but only a desperate rally near the end of the game saved Ranger from defeat.

NO. 17—WHAT THE KING'S COOK DID IN THE SKY

So he opened the little brown door.

The cook of the King of Yum Yum Land stopped being frightened when the magic dust-pan ran off with him to the sky, and he began to look around.

"Well, well, well," he said to himself. "For the first time in my life I am seeing the world. And as I have the magic fork I am in a fair way to make my fortune. I can start a hotel and I won't have to cook as much as an egg. I can stay in bed all day and just wave my fork and provide food for a hundred guests."

But then it occurred to him that there he was up in the sky with no idea of how to get down.

All at once he saw a wonderful sight.

Right ahead of him sitting comfortably on a big cloud, was a nice little house with a red tile roof and a red chimney and nice green shutters and a cute front porch and everything. The cook didn't know that it was the House That Jack Built.

"Well, of all things!" he cried. "What is that funny stuff sticking out the windows? It looks exactly as though part of the cloud had gotten inside and was poking through."

But pretty soon the dust-pan brought him near enough to see what the stuff really was. You know what it was, of course. Mrs. John's bread dough that had raised until it got so big and so light that it had lifted the little house right off its foundation and carried it up to the sky.

But the cook couldn't make it out until he was close up.

"Why it's bread dough, as sure as you're born!" he declared. "Nice sweet, light bread dough! I wonder how it got here and whose it is!"

He gave a little jab with the magic fork at a great bulky piece that was sticking out of one of the windows—and poof! puff! whuff!

The air went out of the bread dough like a punctured balloon, and the dough settled back in its pan on the table as though it had never had a thought of leaving. Except for a little flour dust on the ceiling, and a patch on the stove, and a smudge on the door, the kitchen was as clean as apple pie, for Mrs. John was a good housekeeper.

"Doughnuts and gingerbread," cried the cook. "If queer things keep on happening I'll begin to think I have wheels in my head. I hardly know whether to believe in my good luck or not. A magic fork to provide food and a fine house to live in, in my old age. I'll just go inside."

So he opened the little brown door and stepped off the magic dust-pan and went in.

Instantly the magic dust-pan started to fall toward the earth.

It dropped down like a stone.

But it never reached the ground.

Nancy and Nick and Duddy Gander were still floating around in the air with no place to go. The peddler's floating powders were very strong and lasted a long time.

As the magic dust-pan passed Duddy Gander, the ring in the handle caught in a button of the old gentleman's green coat and hung there.

"Great growing broom corns!" cried Duddy, grabbing it with both hands. "If it isn't my dearly beloved dust-pan! Look here, Twins. We're saved!"

The minute he touched it, the pan spread out like a magic carpet, and in about two minutes the three adventurers were sitting on it as safely as the Thief of Bagdad on the magic carpet.

HOW ENGLAND TURNED REPUBLIC

Part I—A Quarrel Over Taxes

Perhaps you know that the English king hasn't very much power. England is really ruled by two groups of law-makers: the house of commons and the house of lords. Together, they are called "parliament."

There was a time when the monarch of England was the real ruler. Old Henry the Eighth ran things pretty much to suit himself. Queen so well liked as Elizabeth had been. The parliament decided it ought to have more power. The king, on the other hand, thought it should have less.

The result was a bitter quarrel. King James put taxes on goods going in and out of England. The parliament voted that such taxes were not legal. "No James" — a fall of rage. He was one of the members of the house of commons put in prison. The members protested, saying:

"We have a right to say what we choose."

The king replied: "You have no rights except those I let you have."

After James died, his son, Charles came to the throne. Charles was a man of grace and fine manners. Some persons thought he would be able to win the good will of the people, which his gruff old father had not been able to do. They thought the quarrel with parliament might be ended.

That was far from the case. The dispute grew more bitter than ever. Four years after Charles became king, a parliament complained about taxes being gathered without its consent. Then came this order from Charles:

"Parliament is ordered to quit meeting. It has no power to make laws until I call it together again."

Most of the members obeyed the order promptly, but a little group in the house of commons waited until it could declare:

"Whoever ask for tariff taxes without our consent is a public enemy."

One man in that little group was named Oliver Cromwell.

An old picture of the House of Commons.

Elizabeth also kept most of the power to herself, but under her reign parliament had a little more to do with the laws.

The next ruler was James the First. He came from Scotland, and was not
